RADR · Research Amon Dîn Rating

How far the watch data and check-ins are from this person's own normal, 0 (usual) to 4 (far from usual).

To improve care: not a risk score, prediction or diagnosis, and not watched around the clock. Each measure is compared with the person's previous four weeks; four domains are scored and shown with the check-ins beside them. In the psychologist's list RADR only orders patients, after answers waiting for review. Method and sources: docs/RADR.md in the Steady repository.

How this was worked out

RADR version radr-1: each measure compared with this person's own 28 days before, leaving out the most recent 7; smoothed over 3 days; scored 0 (usual) to 4; a domain counts as away from usual at 1.5 or more. Rated once there are 14 days to compare with.
